

To Whom It May Concern:

The internet was one of the few things that allowed equal access to knowledge & power. Now, it's being fundamentally altered, widening the privilege gap. This is why we need Net Neutrality.

Without Net Neutrality, the Internet experience we now know will look a lot more like cable television, where you have the provider choosing which sites you can access, what you can watch, and what you can do.

Taking away Net Neutrality is the authoritarian dream -- it consolidates information into the hands of a few controlled by a few.

From a business perspective, it would put small and medium-sized businesses at a disadvantage and prevent innovative new ones from even getting off the ground.
